

ASCI LEADERSHIP SERIES 2019

29 MAY

Making an impact on leadership capacity

According to latest research*, we are witnessing five key trends in leadership:

1. It is no longer enough to just lead people; leaders need to orchestrate business ecosystems.
2. There is a high demand for collective and collaborative leadership rather than relying on individual heroes.
3. Leaders must be driven by purpose and determined to create value for all stakeholders.
4. They have to develop ability to anticipate trends, to be more prepared to face them and to have greater flexibility.
5. Leaders must possess genuine curiosity and open-mindedness towards diverse perspectives.

Join us and our host, Robert Walters, to hear supply chain leaders, including Jeremy Cowan, COO at Blackmores, Segaran Narayanan, VP Pacific Supply Chain at Schneider Electric, Darren Vine, Acting Supply Chain Director, Komatsu Mining Corp, on this topic. They'll share how they break the silos, pay attention to employee engagement and take risks when promoting people.

The panel discussion will be moderated by Laura Hefer, Leadership and Team Coach at Value Addicts.

WHEN 7.30-9.30am Wednesday 29 May 2019
WHERE Robert Walters: Level 53, 1 Farrer Place Sydney
COST Free for ASCI Members & their HR & C-suite guests

Registration

events@asci.org.au

Tomorrow's Leadership research was conducted by Henley Business School with interviews from CEOs, HR Directors and nominated Millennial Leaders in over 40 countries*

This event is proudly supported by

ROBERT WALTERS

